The President's message, in commenting upon the mabber in which the public debi is contracted, so that the people are debtors to themselve, makes it a cause of congrafulation We pointed out the error in this, soilt is made to oppear that the debt, which is a bur then to all, is in bonds which belong to el'; while, in fact, few own the bonds and mony owe the debt. As we steled, it is the debt of the many to the few. This deprives it of the pecious advantage which is ascribed to it. The tendency is, of course, to contract capital In the heads of the capitalist-a plan which has never been advantageous to the individual independence of the people. It is the diffusion not the concentration of wealth, that is bene Valuable Stock and Hay Farm ficial to the true interests of a country. W. must suppose that Mr. Lincoln spprehends this fact, as we observe he suggests a method to induce small capitalists and mechanics to invest le the public fands. His plan is thet a special here of bouds shall be made, which shall be exempt from taxition, and exempt from de's. . A fund which can be laid seide and be forever free from the creditors. However worthy the design may be, we can see many difficulties in the way of its actual atility.

Upon what terms is this perilcular fund to be so exempt from the usual liabilities belongisg to property? Is the amount to be unlim ited, or, if limited, what is the amount to be set eside? It will be difficult to limit this, If it is a privilege belonging to all, and unlimited. of course the tendency will be to turn all other funds into this. To what amount must it be limitec? What would be ressonable in one lecality, would not be in another. What would be a suitable smount in one butipees, would be excessive in snother. What would be only fair protection to the bonest trader or farmer, would be a shield for fraud in the dishonest and tricks.

If we suppose, however, that e cultable amount can be agreed appr, we are met with o ber difficulties. There must be restrictions of a kind to obviste fraude, and there must be e trit bual to dircover the good faith and int grity of the ludividual who converts his property into the very peculiar kind of stock. Are the fressury agen's to be converted into a species of judici i officers, who are to decide upon evidence that the applicant for there to de'rand his creditors? for we take it for headless body of a man was found in the granted that it will not be sllowed that any Plaistow Marshes. The bolder of them would be in very much the position of a tenant with but power to rent or reli The bonds would not have one single element of money, except in the annual income from the interest, and it would be doubtful whether the bolder could even assign that, as it would be regarded in isw seequ'valent to e conversion or sale of the bonds themselves.

The object, as we have stated, is to counteract the concentration of the netional epital into the hands of the few; but from what we have suggested, it will be seen that this, if not impossible, is so extremely dimcult es to warrant its being so characterized. The only way to prevent it is, if such en impossible thing could be occompilabed, to deprive the bonds of their pego: lable character. Bu' if that la done, it is no longer desirable property. Exemption from debt may be well, but when, to obtain this, the stock loses its on the steemer Ada, on his way to Riebmond, character es property so for as to lack the to stard trial in the motter of the capture of quelity of credit or power to purchase, it is bis reseed by the Kearsarge. As has been said, of this whole rumber, but shout twenty are having crops gathered—one in five. The eighty have been breken up by guerrillas. My last letter gives you an idea of the process. The blacks put at work upon them have been driven back to slavery, or, in considerable numbers and with every elecumetance of bru tailty, killed, or have escaped as they could by fight and returned to the points from which they were taken. On some of these descried paces, however, the retein have allowed a number of blacks to remain on condition that they would not work or gather the cotten. The twenty plantations now occupied are all within a semi-rivele of about seven miles, described from Vidalia as a center. A small force at Bullet' beyon, with another between the foat of the lake and the bond of the river below Vidalia, make those farms comparative iveals, twelve of them very comfortably and of the other six the York and Fischer and the Sysamore places (scenes of the stroitles mentioned in my last) are two. Four other of the twenty are subject to the constant visiting the subject to the subject to the constant visiting the subject to the subject to the constant visiting the subject to the twenty are subject to the constant vitation of guerrilles, and owe their crops to the fact that the old hands and overseers remain on them, or to other and less bonorab

At the head of this firm ato Burnet, the treasury agent who had the training of plantatione, and with him was Judge Fi. id who was the commissioner for the leasing issury art. The military authorities have once tried and convicted Field, and Burnet is now under a reat. Of the plantations on which crops are being pathered, which are causide of this and twelve, Judge Field has at least three. Is how many more he had a cyper transparent. many more he had a covert interest it is impos-ible to say. The out lying eighty farms were leased by anch persons as could be silured, in their ignorance of the adequable position of their land, to the perilous undertaking, where by the promise of enormous profit, or by the by the promise of enormous profit, or by the tumane purpose of siding is the sirvation of the black, or the pairlo ic medical oil lightering the birden of the Government is the care of these freedmen. Mesers, Martin & Crumbaugh. A notice of the arrest of Measrs. Martin & Crambough for a violation of the "Revenue Law" appeared in our columns yesterdsy, alledging that in addition to their other basi ness they have been manufacturing cloaks, and refused to take out license as manufacturers. Upon investigation the case against them was promply diamissed. This firm has not manufactured cloaks or clothing of any discription whatever, and the charge was preferred doubtless, by some malicions person. The facts, and out of which the charge was made, are as follows: When ladies purchased the material for cloaks, or desired to have them made, they recommended a poor young lady of our city, whom they knew to be a good seamstress, who could make their cloaks or tell them the amount of cloth needed. Is do ing so they not only served their customers but in many instances were the means of helping a most estimable young girl, whose orly means of support was her needle and the skill she possessed in adorning her eex with such cloaks or mantillas as the needs of the sesson demanded. Out of this benevolent mo tive grew the charge, and for which they were summoned to appear before Judge Ballard. The case was, as we before stated, promptly dismissed. Martin & Crumbaugh is an old established firm, commanding the respect and confidence of this community. We honor them for the motive which led to the groundless charge, and so will the community.

Himmer surpassed all our expectations in the character of Faust; his voice to full and mellow and need with such effect as to induce the belief that he was but intoning for the author. Hermann's Meph'stopeles we have seldom seen equaled and never surpassed. Was were surpised at the compass and power of his voice, and while his sligging was throughout good, his acting is really near Main.

The chorusses were well custained, and the orchestra was all that the most critical could have desired. The holiday scene and the parade were vigorously encord, but we regret the omission of the scene in the chapel. For to-night we have the promise of "La Dame Blanche," in which M. Habelman will sing the ballad of Robin Adair. We trust those who adnire the songs of Scotland will not mise this oportunity of hearing this beautiful ballad. The cest is a strong one. We note the second appear ance of Mesers. Hermann and Habelman, and fift ppearance of Madam Johannson and M'lle Canisea WOOD'S THEATER.-Another large and fashion

'As Pauline in the Lady of Lyone she was mexceptional, and she more than realized the expectations of her most ardent admirers To-night Miss Logan will appear as Parthenta in the beau tiful play of Ingomar, a part in which she is said, to have no equal on the American stage. The per mance will conclude with Andy Blake. On Pri day night this charming actress will take a benefit when we expect to see the house crowded to its tmost capacity

VARIETIES.-It is a matter of fact that Ryan & Calhoun's Minstrele are becoming very popular in this city, and are making the Varieties, on Piftl street, a popular place of amusement. We stepped in last night to see them, and were not only ple to witness the performances, but also pleased to notice so large an audience present and such good order in the house. They play nightly, and we can romise those who wish to see and hear a fins oupe of minstrels a rich treat if they visit the GOVERNMENT CENTPICATES - Mr. H. C. Fred. Rush is the name of the supposed guerrills who was arrested on the mail boat Sanday night. He was well armed, and had every appearance of a mean, low outlaw, When cipinred he was at once handcuffed and lodged in Jall at Madison.

There are a large number of officers in the city at present; some on detached service, some on furloughs, some to be mustered out

The resolution instructs the committee to inquire into the propriety of a tax on all sales of both real and personal property. Mr. Shermae believed there was a secessity for an increased taxation. There were several rea cas for it. The soldiers were now serving in the field and enduring the hardships of military service, white citizens were reaping rich profits from the war by engaging in business, and were doing better than they had does during any previous year. He thought it was but right. They who are resping rich profits out of the war, should pay libereily. If we increased our national debt and put those taxes upon fature generations, we compelled these soldiers who had fought our battles to bear the expenses of the war. This would be unjust.
